Fanfiction

"'But it was a lovely catechism,' said Syme pathetically. 'Do let me read it you. It has only forty-three questions and answers, and some of the Marquis's answers are unbelievably witty. I like to be just to my enemy.'" --G.K. Chesterton, The Man Who Was Thursday

FANFICTION IS A DELICIOUS WAY TO SCRATCH THE WRITING ITCH AND ENJOY OUR FAVORITE WORKS AT THE SAME TIME. BELOW ARE examples of my homages to, imaginings about, and parodic flourishes on my various fandoms. Dig into a fic, and don't be shy to send a review to my email address! If you like what you see, check this page again for new material....

Mary Russell/Sherlock Holmes

The Vicissitudes of an Idiom by nivcharayahel and L. Inman (known on RUSS-L as "soothing if occasionally incomprehensible monologue" and "A Mild Fit of Hysterics"). (1999) This is a repastiche of the Mary Russell/Sherlock Holmes books by Laurie R. King. Assume all fanfiction disclaimers. 21K

Crossovers

Teamwork: Or, To Conjure a Fire by L. Inman. (2001) A Harry Potter/West Wing crossover. As always, assume all usual fanfiction disclaimers. Beware "Leadership Breakfast" spoilers. 18K

Harry Potter

A Conversation by L. Inman. (2002) Hermione's efforts to reconcile her friends take her on a hunt for Ron. Set during Goblet of Fire. 14K

Direct the Other Way by L. Inman. (2005) Snape feels it is really not a far, far better thing he's doing, at all. Set in year 7; spoilers for HBP.

Sundry Superlatives by L. Inman. (2005) A sequel to "Direct the Other Way." In which Harry, with a little help from his friends, learns something about potions both from Snape and the Half Blood Prince. Set in year 7; spoilers for HBP.

Unheld Conversations: A Collection of Dreams by L. Inman. (2005) A sequel to "Direct the Other Way" and "Sundry Superlatives." In which maps and mirrors figure prominently in Snape's and Harry's mission. Set in year 7; spoilers for HBP.

The Feast of All Saints by L. Inman. (2007) The first of November has some strange things to reveal to the denizens of Godric's Hollow.

Firefly/Serenity

Famous Last Words by L. Inman. (2006) River knows exactly where to put each step, but it doesn't always help. Set immediately post-Serenity.
